

Moon Society Planning Conference

July 22-23, 2000

Caesars Palace • Las Vegas, Nevada

About the Conference

The Moon Society planning conference will be held at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas immediately following this year's Lunar Development Conference.

The theme for this conference is strategy and planning for the Moon Society and its projects. The conference program includes workshops ranging from technical issues about lunar development to Project Leto, a test bed for many of the developments we need to establish a permanent human presence on the moon.

We are also keeping space in the conference schedule open to accommodate issues that arise during the prior two days of the Lunar Development Conference.

Conference Registration

The conference is open to everyone interested in the study and development of the Moon.

If you are participating in the Lunar Development Conference on July 20-21, you do not need to register separately for the Moon Society Conference.

Registration for the just the Moon Society Conference is $90. You may register by mail or on line. To register by mail, please fill out the form at the right and send it with your check.

To register on line with your MasterCard or Visa, go to this URL and follow the link to the on-line registration page on the Space Frontier Foundation secure server:
